THE LOST WORDS:ACTIVITY PACK

---

- There are many more activities in the Explorer's Pack to try if you want to be creative with words, song rhythm and rhyme. Here is another activity you could try.
- JACKIE MORRIS
- Seek, find, speak, create Jackie Morris speaks of the 'sleeping seed of a tree, a forest in waiting.'
  - Use this description around which to devise your own modern fairy tale, planning it out first. You might want to steal some of the words from The Lost Words and Spell Songs and weave them into your tale.
- Or: • Use Jackie's words: 'The Nearby Wild' as a story title, letting your imagination run free. You might find ideas in the description of her own cottage in west Wales.

- Or: • Create a story where there is a spell, using music, word and image, in response to Jackie's words: 'words and images weave a spell, music created around both word and image carries that spell deeper into the soul.' • Find out about the power of music in traditional tales and retell them in your own words.
- E.g. Orpheus, the sirens in The Odyssey, King March's Ears, the Freedom Song <http://www.storymuseum.org.uk/1001stories/story/The+freedom+song>
- The boy and the violin https://www.worldoftales.com/South\_American\_folktales/South\_American\_Folktale\_25.html
